

INVITATION

ASEAN and China-Japan-South Korea (10+3) Workshop on Prevention and Control of Animal Infectious Diseases

Yangzhou, China
October 9-20, 2013

To whom it may concern

Dear Sir or Madam:

Greetings from Yangzhou University, China.

We take the pleasure to invite you to the ASEAN and China-Japan-South Korea (10+3) Workshop on Prevention and Control of Animal Infectious Diseases which is to be held on October 9-20, 2013 in Yangzhou University, China.

The workshop is sponsored by the Chinese Government Fund for Asian Regional Cooperation. It will start with an open symposium from October 9 to 11 and then follow on with a laboratory-based training program from October 12 to 20. Invited experts from China, Japan and South Korea will deliver lectures on the symposium, while invited Chinese professors will supervise the training program.

The workshop will welcome up to 20 scholars in the related fields from ASEAN countries. The Chinese government Fund for Asian Regional Cooperation will cover the workshop fees, local accommodation and meals, as well as limited airfare amounting to RMB 2,000 yuan per person. Individual scholars in government, academia, industry and private practice are all welcome to apply for attendance.

More information on the workshop is given in <http://ASEANworkshop.yzu.edu.cn>

We invite you to join us at the workshop, where you will be sure to have a meaningful experience with scholars from ASEAN countries and China, Japan, and South Korea.

Please feel free to fill up the Application Form attached to this letter, and send it to us via ASEANworkshop@yzu.edu.cn before September 15, 2013. The form is also available on the workshop website. We will get back to you as soon as possible.

All organizing members of ASEAN and China-Japan-South Korea (10+3) Workshop on Prevention and Control of Animal Infectious Diseases look forward to meeting you in Yangzhou, China.

Thank you

Prof. Aijian Qin, DVM
Chairman of the Organizing Committee
ASEAN and China-Japan-South Korea (10+3) Workshop on Prevention and Control of Animal Infectious Diseases

Why to attend the ASEAN and China-Japan-South Korea (10+3) Workshop on Prevention and Control of Animal Infectious Diseases

In recent years, animal infectious diseases and zoonoses such as bovine spongiform encephalopathy, avian influenza, foot-and-mouth disease, PRRSV and salmonellosis have been widely spreading worldwide, causing great economic losses to animal industries and unprecedented challenges to food safety. China has long border lines and crossings with ASEAN, Japan and South Korea while the animal product-related trade volumes between China and these countries have increased rapidly. Therefore, it is imperative to establish a multilateral scheme to successfully monitor and control these infectious diseases.

The ASEAN and China-Japan-South Korea (10+3) Workshop on Prevention and Control of Animal Infectious Diseases is supposed to give these issues a solution. The symposium will cover topics of various areas in infectious diseases, including but not limited to, vaccine development, epidemiology, molecular diagnostics, as well as the zoonoses. The most well-known scientists in this area will give key-note speeches, and the symposium will also provide a platform for all attendants to present their recent progress and fruitful output in prevention and control of infectious diseases in the form of platform and poster presentations.

The training program after the symposium also provides an excellent educational opportunity for veterinarians and allied professionals who are responsible for animal disease outbreak responses. Individuals in government, academia, industry and private practice will find this training program beneficial and are encouraged to attend. The program will include demonstration and hands-on activity involving the most cutting-edge technologies related to microbiology.

It will be an excellent opportunity to meet experts and colleagues in the field of animal infectious diseases from ASEAN countries and China, Japan and South Korea, and we look forward to hosting you at Yangzhou University, China.
